

News & Events

CAR co-hosts colloquium with See Seng Tan and Sheldon Simon

See Seng Tan, who was awarded the title of Distinguished Alumni Speaker by the School of Politics & Global Studies, gave a lecture on March 1st regarding possible solutions to conflict in the South China Sea. He lectured alongside his former dissertation chair, Sheldon Simon. Tan, who completed his PhD at ASU in 1999, is currently a professor of international relations at Nanyang Technological University in Singapore. His research focuses on politics and security in Southeast Asia.

Global@ASU also reported on this story: <https://global.asu.edu/asu-distinguished-alumnus-gives-lecture-mentor>

Upcoming Events

A.T. Steele Faculty Grant Application

Deadline: April 2nd

The Center for Asian Research invites applications for the A.T. Steele Faculty Travel Grant, with which ASU faculty can fund their travel to Asia for research. The Center for Asian Research invites competitive proposals for faculty travel to Asia up to $3,000 each. The grants are supported through the Center's A.T. Steele Endowment.

Please submit applications to Asia@asu.edu

Conferences

Inaugural Theravada Studies Conference 2018- Registration

There will be a conference on Theravada cultures and civilizations held on March 22, 2018 at the Marriott Wardman Park Hotel, Washington DC. Participants and attendees please register on the Theravada website through the following link:

<http://theravadaciv.org/2018-theravada-conference-registration-page/>

Study Abroad Opportunities

Summer 2018: Ekavira and Renuka in Mahur

Gawande College in Umarched, Maharashtra, India

This summer, join Ohio University Professor Brian Collins of the department of Classics and World Religions and Professor Julie White of the Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies program for an amazing program experience at Gawande College in Umarched, Maharashtra, India from July 1-August 1.

Students will have the chance to explore gender in the cultural, religious, and social context of contemporary rural India. They will learn about the interconnectedness of Indian religion, society, and history through lectures, readings, and group excursions to some of the most significant religious sites venerated by Hindus, Muslims, Buddhists, and Sikhs.

For information on application and registration, please contact Megan Avellana at avellanm@ohio.edu

Internship Opportunities

Pali at Harvard Divinity School- Summer Language Program

Application Deadline: May 4, 2018

The Summer Language Program (SLP) at the Harvard Divinity School is an eight-week intensive language study program designed specifically for the curriculum in theological and religious studies. The program offers over ten languages for study such as elementary Pali, Arabic, Spanish, and Hebrew. There is a minimum of five students allowed per course, and students may only enroll in one course.

For more information and application: <https://hds.harvard.edu/academics/nondegree-programs/summer-language-program>

Barrett Fellows @ CLAS Centers

Global Terrorism in the Early Twentieth Century

Application Deadline: March 30, 2018

Professor Linh Vu is searching for students in Barrett, the Honors College to assist her in research focusing on global terrorism in the twentieth century. Barrett Fellows will read through newspaper reports and compile and summarize these incidents. An ideal candidate is someone with attention to detail, patience, resilience, ability to maintain interest over time, and be committed to future developments of the research. The Fellow will learn how to conduct archival research, summarize materials, and analyze data and receive mentorship on how to interpret historical data, and create talks and posters for presentation at workshops and conferences.

For more information and application: <https://barrethonors.asu.edu/content/center-asian-research>